BRAND GUIDELINES · VERSION 1.0

keel brand guide.

A calm, level line under a moving stream. Everything in this guide follows from that one idea.

The signal moves. The stream holds.

A streamer walks through a city. Networks wobble, phones overheat, trains go underground. Keel is the part that does not move: the fixed line under the boat.

Above the line

The signal moves.

Cellular, Wi-Fi, bonding links, a phone in a pocket. Out of anyone's control.

Below the line

The stream holds.

Ingest, encoder and platform connection stay up. Viewers see a designed screen, not a dead stream.

One mark, level.

Primary lockup. Default on hull, buoy and bone. Mark only when the name sits nearby. Clear space is the height of the circle's bottom half on every side. Minimum width 96 px, mark only 24 px.

NEVER

Do not rotate the whole mark

Do not level the top half

Do not recolor

Do not use low contrast

Four core, six accent.

Buoy is a signal, not a fill. It never carries small text on bone (2.7:1). Put hull on buoy (4.9:1). Balance on a page: about 60% bone or hull, 25% one accent block, 15% buoy.

One family. Tight, warm.

Canvas 1920 by 1080. Margins 120, eyebrow at 84, title at 124, footer at 1004. Cards radius 36 to 44, outline 3 px or solid. Rounded, never sharp. No gradients, no shadows, no glow.

The tilt tells you.

Live.

Healthy bitrate. The top half sits almost level.

Mint on dark · Kelp on bone · 6° tilt

Weak signal.

Bitrate below the floor. A slow tilt, not an alarm.

Lamp · 12° tilt

Holding on.

Feed gone. Viewers see the BRB screen, broadcast stays up.

Buoy · 18° tilt

State is never color alone: a word, a color and a tilt angle always travel together, so it reads in sunlight and for color-blind users.

Calm under pressure.

Big state word. One primary action. Bone cards on a bone page, hull where the live data is. Built to read on a phone in sunlight.

Plain words, short lines.

Write like this

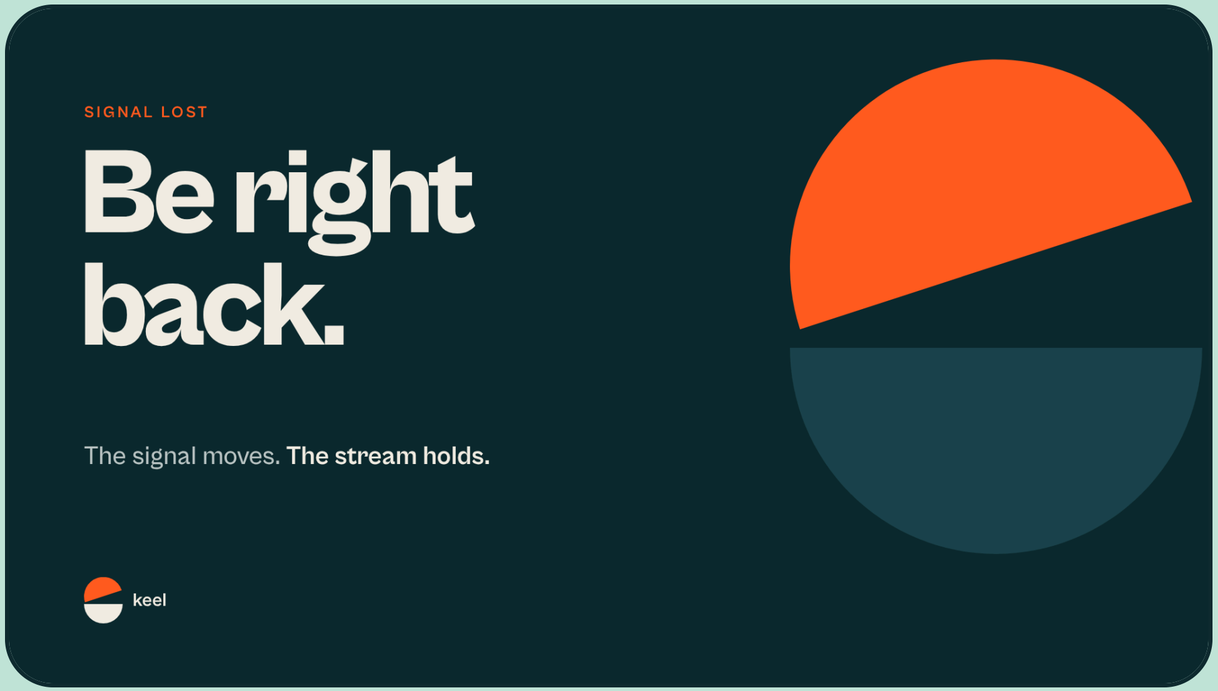

- Signal lost. Stream held.
- Drops held: 7. Unexpected stops: 0.
- Weak signal. Holding on.
- Your server stops itself when you do.

Not like this

- REVOLUTIONARY ULTRA-RELIABLE STREAMING!!!
- Never drops, guaranteed 100% uptime.
- Leverage our synergistic cloud solution.
- Go beast mode and dominate the stream.

1 One idea per screen 2 Sentence case, end with a period 3 Numbers over adjectives 4 Never promise what is not measured Level, everywhere.

The viewer screen when the phone drops. Replace with your own channel branding any time.

Stream from anywhere. It holds.
